DECLARATION OF BRAD BAKER

I, Brad Baker, do hereby declare and state as follows:

1. I am the President of Impact Confections, Inc. ("Impact") and I have held that position for 21 years. Impact is a manufacturer of candy, primarily novelty confections. The company has an active product development program which I personally oversee and to which I contribute. I am the inventor of the subject matter in the above-identified patent application. Prior to Impact, I was self-employed for three years in the novelty toy business. As a result of this employment in the candy industry since 1981, I am highly familiar with the candy market, including novelty confections, and I am aware of the factors that drive success in the market.

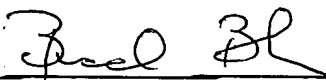

2. The product that is the subject matter of the above-identified patent application is sold under the trademark LOLLIPOP PAINT SHOP ("Paint Shop"). The Paint Shop product was introduced in 1999 and in the approximately three (3) years during which it has been marketed sales of this product have been in excess of $50 million. This is the most successful product of Impact in its history. Thus, compared to other Impact products, Paint Shop is a commercially successful invention.

3. I also am involved in assessing the competitive position of Impact in its segment of the candy market. I attend trade shows, visit with customers, and stay abreast of competitors' activities including introduction and commercial success of competitive products. Based on my observations and experience in the candy market it is my opinion that Paint Shop is a highly successful product compared to competitive products.

4. As evidence of industry recognition, the Paint Shop product received the Professional Candy Buyer's Product of the Year Award for 1999, in the Novelty category. A copy of the article describing the award is attached.

5. I further declare that all statements made herein of my own knowledge are true and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true; and further that these statements were made with the knowledge that willful false statements and the like so made are punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, under Section 1001 of Title 18 of the United States Code.

Dated this 29 day of April, 2002.

program attracted record voting, with nearly 5,000 ballots cast. They were collected from buyers, brokers and suppliers, with special attention paid to candy buyers' votes.

Forster said: "The products were nominated by the magazine's readers at the end of last year. They represent items that our readers thought were worthy of special attention in that they were either new products, existing items repackaged with additional benefits or successfully offered in new promotions.

"Also nominated were existing items that broke through during 1999," he said.

From a list of more than 100 products, the top four or five products nominated in each category were put forward for reader voting, he explained.

"Competition was extremely fierce this year, and in all, the nominated products gathered nearly 5,000 votes — many more than in previous years," he said.

The five categories, he told attendees, were chocolate, non-chocolate, novelty.
